The novel was partly influenced by historical figures and events, notably the story of a man attempting to relive a moment from the past for love's sake. Matheson's own interest in time travel theories and metaphysical questions about existence and memory played pivotal roles in shaping the narrative.

The novel was initially published under the title Bid Time Return, but it gained widespread recognition when adapted into the acclaimed film Somewhere in Time in 1980, which we'll discuss later. The book's unique premise and emotional depth have made it a cornerstone of speculative romance fiction.

The novel blurs the boundaries between reality and illusion as Richard immerses himself in the past, determined to change his destiny and forge a love that defies temporal constraints.

The Narrative Arc

- Introduction to Richard Collier: The story begins with Richard's mundane life in the 1970s, marked by personal loss and longing. His obsession with the photograph of Elise McKenna, a celebrated actress from the 1910s, sets the stage for the novel's exploration of memory and desire.
